IAGC AWARDS FOR 2010

The International Association of GeoChemistry is pleased to announce the following awards for 2010.

Vernadsky Medal

The IAGC Vernadsky Medal is awarded biennially for a distinguished record of scientific accomplishment in geochemistry over the course of a career.

Mike Edmunds
Oxford University

Ebelmen Award

The IAGC Ebelmen Award is given to a geochemist of particular merit and outstanding promise less than 35 years old.

Quinghai Guo
China University of Geosciences

IAGC Fellows

The honorary title of Fellow is bestowed biennially on outstanding scientists who are IAGC members and who, over the course of some years, have made significant contributions to the field of geochemistry.

Brian Hitchon
Alberta Research Council (Retired)

Miriam Kastner
University of California at San Diego

IAGC Distinguished Service Awards

The IAGC Distinguished Service Award recognizes outstanding service by an IAGC member to the Association or to the geochemical community that greatly exceeds the normal expectations of meritorious voluntary service.

David Long
Michigan State University

Simcha Stroes-Gascoyne
Atomic Energy Canada, Ltd

IAGC Certificates of Recognition

The IAGC Certificate of Recognition is bestowed for outstanding scientific accomplishment in a particular area of geochemistry, for excellence in teaching or public service, or for service to IAGC or the international community.

Sigurdur Gislason
University of Iceland

Richard Wanty
U.S. Geological Survey

IAGC Hitchon Award

The IAGC Hitchon Award recognizes a paper of particular merit published in the IAGC journal, Applied Geochemistry.

Charlet L, Chakraborty S, Appelo CAJ, Roman-Ross G, Nath B, Ansari AA, Lanson M, Chatterjee D, Basu Mallik S (2007) Chemodynamics of an arsenic "hotspot" in a West Bengal aquifer: A field and reactive transport modeling study. Applied Geochemistry 22: 1273-1292

IAGC PhD Student Research Grants

The IAGC Student Research Grant program is to help PhD students in geochemistry undertake and acquire geochemical analyses in support of the student's research, based upon receipt of a meritorious proposal. The recipients of an IAGC Student Research Grant for 2010 are:

G.P. Gurumurthy
Department of Civil Engineering,
Manipal Institute of Technology, India

Christina Puscas
Department of Geology,
University of South Florida, USA

Lindsay MacKenzie
Department of Geosciences,
University of Montana, USA
