

Geochemical Perspectives

New journal in January 2012

Each issue of Geochemical Perspectives presents a single article with an in-depth view on the past, present and future of a geochemical field, as seen through the eyes of highly respected members of our community. The articles combine the research and the history of the field's development, the scientist's opinions for future research and can even include personal glimpses into the author's scientific life. Perspectives articles are intended to appeal to the entire geochemical community, not only to experts of one theme. They are not reviews or monographs, but provide perspectives about where the field is going and opinions about where it should go.
